to buy drugs, is the cheap way. If medicine is to cure the sick, it must be the best and purest, and skill and experience are also necessary in the art of compounding physicians' prescriptions. We simply give you our name and let you draw your own conclusions.

TOWN MEETING.

All the Reports Are Not Ready.

Further Adjournment for Two Weeks
—Lively Discussion of Water Rates
—Hospital Site Referred to Selectmen.

At the adjourned town meeting last Monday night the committee of 21 asked for a further extension of time, as it had been impossible for the sub-committees to prepare all their reports. This extension was granted, and it was accordingly voted that when the meeting adjourned, it should stand adjourned to Monday, April 7. Such reports and partial reports as were ready were then read, discussed and acted upon.

The report on electric lighting, by George W. Perkins, was accepted, and its recommendations were adopted. Peter Schwamb then read the report of the Cutter school building committee, showing an unexpended balance of $52.53. The report was accepted, and it was voted to accept also the recommendation of the committee to pay this balance to the school committee to be used against such shrinkage defects as usually appear in new structures of wood and masonry, defects which are already fully developed in the Cutter building. A vote of thanks was extended to the building committee for its good service.

The partial report of the committee of five, appointed last fall to investigate the finances and the financial methods of the town, was read by Howard W. Spurr, and accepted by the meeting.

Article 29 in regard to rates for the use of hand hoses was then taken up. Mr. Schwamb moved to conform to the regulations of the metropolitan water board, and charge as minimum rates $4 per year, and $6 for separate service. A lively and interesting discussion upon the subject of water rates followed, after which it was voted to refer the matter to the water board for investigation.

On motion of Peter Schwamb, article 30 was then taken up. The proposed change in the regulation regarding the laying of main water pipes in the streets requiring an increased deposit ($20) per linear foot of pipe laid, was adopted by the meeting.

Article 31 was next taken up on motion of George I. Doe. The list of jurors was read by the moderator, Mr. Robinson, and accepted, with the addition of E. J. Purcell, William J. Gearing and Thomas F. Welch. William G. Rice and Elbert L. Churchill were excused from service.

In behalf of the Symmes Arlington hospital, George Y. Wellington, after reading the articles of incorporation of its board of trustees, moved to empower the selectmen to transfer to the hospital a lot of land, comprising between ten and twelve acres behind the almshouse. After considerable discussion, it was voted to refer the matter to the selectmen, instructing them to report to the adjourned meeting.

On motion of E. S. Farmer, it was voted to approve and adopt the recommendations of last year's committee of five regarding rates of rental of the town hall. Mr. Farmer explained that this action was necessary merely as a matter of record.

In relation to article 33, taken up on motion of Howard W. Spurr, Mr. Farmer stated that contrary to reports the article was inserted at the request of counsel of one of the defendants in the suit now pending. Further consideration of it was postponed to the final one of the series of adjourned meetings.

At 9 p.m. the meeting adjourned.

LAST ASSEMBLY.

The last of the series of eight assemblies took place last Friday night in Association hall. A large attendance made the floor space a little crowded, but the dance was a great success. Much credit is due Miss Alice Homer, who has conducted these parties for the results attained. Those who have attended them are indebted to her for her careful and thoughtful management. About 50 couples were present last week. The matrons were Mrs. J. Q. A. Brackett and Mrs. H. G. Porter, both ladies gracing the occasion with handsome gowns. The ushers were John G. Brackett, Lindsey Foster and Clifford Gray. Home's orchestra, as usual, furnished the music. The introduction of two Germans, the flag and confetti figures, made a welcome innovation in the usual program of dances.

Among those present were: Ex-Governor Brackett, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. McDonald, and party, Misses Hicks, Peck, H. Taft, Hill, Fletcher, Peirce, Fowle, Hardy, Homer, Gott, Puffer, Spaulding, Cousins, Porter, Hodgson, Richardson, McLaren, Marion and Fredrika Chuico, North, Constance Yeames, Bridgman, Perry, Marston, Turner, Musgrave, Worthley, Arnold, Holbrook, Bates, and Messrs. Colman, French, Monroe, Hill, Lindsey, Foster, Fowle, James, Arnold, Caldwell, Yeames, David, Hernandez, Moses, Reed, Warren and Ernest Freeman, George and Clifford Gray, Woods, Horne, Remus, Cushman, Holt, Moore, Mills, Hills, Bartlett, Wilder, Richardson, Dunbar, Trowbridge, Eubank, Smith, Parker, Bacon and Homer.

Instead of ending at 11, as usual, the dancing continued until 12 o'clock.

O. B. Marston, the carpenter and builder, is never out of work, and for the reason that he fills all contracts to the satisfaction of his patrons. Mr. Marston attends to all kinds of jobbing.

A. E. SEAGRAVE

Severs His Connection With Enterprise.

After Almost a Year's Management,
He Leaves to Devote Himself More
Exclusively to the Law.

Arthur E. Seagrave severed his connection with the Enterprise last week Saturday. After almost a year's able management of its affairs, during the most of which time he has been carrying the work of two men, Mr. Seagrave has decided to devote himself more exclusively to his law studies. A young man of remarkably strong individuality, and endowed to a high degree with the journalistic instinct, he has even greater leanings towards the profession which he has chosen.

Born in Uxbridge, Massachusetts, November 25, 1875, the son of Orville B. Seagrave, one of the partners in the Raymer, Seagrave Co., bankers, of Toledo, Ohio, when he was but ten years of age his father died, leaving him to work out his own career for himself. After graduating from the Uxbridge high school in 1892, he was employed for five years in a drug store as clerk, during which time he became the local reporter for the Worcester Telegram and the Woonsocket Reporter, with which, and later with the Worcester Spy, he developed his talent for working up "scops." Pharmacy as a profession did not appeal to him, although he acquired many useful hints behind the counter. In April, 1897, a position opened up with the Worcester Spy, which occupied him for about a year, at the end of which he formed his partnership with the printing business under the name of "The Seagrave Company." Last June, coming to Arlington, he took up the management of the Enterprise.

The preceding sketch of Mr. Seagrave's life thus far would be wholly insufficient to give an adequate idea of the man himself, his characteristic qualities and his untiring energy. Left when but a boy, with a burden of responsibility upon his shoulders, determined to make a good education, and bound to make a name for himself, he had more than three years ago laid all his plans and made his provisions for attending a law school, when serious illness came upon him, laid him up for months, and depleted his resources. Up again he set himself at work once more with undaunted persistence, and last fall entered the law school of Boston university, which he is now attending and whence he will graduate in due season. Before leaving Worcester, and while still but a youth, Mr. Seagrave had become an adept in the art of politics, and a popular speaker, both on the stump and at the banquet table. A strong Bryan Democrat, his convictions are honest and sincere, and expressed always in a fair-minded fashion. In 1900 he received the Democratic nomination as representative from his home district, and, in a strongly Republican section of the state, where McKinley at the same time received a plurality of 967, Mr. Seagrave was defeated by but 187 votes, carrying four out of the five towns which comprise the district. Since then he has been chairman of the Democratic town committee in Uxbridge.

He is a member and, in fact, one of the founders of the Composite club, organization in Uxbridge comprising members from all parties; also a member of the Masonic Fraternity, the Sons of Veterans, the Knights of Pythias, and the Foresters of America, and active in them all.

Since the beginning of his management of the Enterprise last June, he has made many friends in this part of the state also, all of whom will regret his departure. Newspaper work is his hobby; the law, his choice as a profession. The Enterprise, in company with all his other friends, wishes him success and "Godspeed" for the future.

BUSINESS MEN'S PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

Business men all over the country will welcome the news that at last a permanent organization has been formed whereby perfect harmony will prevail in their own localities through the membership of the Business Men's Protective Association, temporary office, 58 Rogers building. It is the foremost intention of this incorporated association to prove that the local newspapers are the only reliable mediums of advertising. The organization was brought about on the strength of work done along this line at Waltham, Mass., on February 14, whereby nearly if not all Waltham's business men joined the Waltham association. The officers of the Business Men's Protective Association are Arthur E. Seymour, president; J. W. Fitzgerald, vice president; Jos. F. Weaver, director; Edwin J. Dyer, treasurer; P. J. Evans, clerk, and Senator John A. Sullivan, corporation counsel. The purpose and object is to secure co-operation in bringing new trade to the town or city where in a branch of the association is formed; to bring about a better understanding between members of the same or different lines of trade; the mutual benefit and protection of its members from all unjust or unreasonable schemes or demands; the general advancement of the commercial interests of the town or city; and the dissemination of useful knowledge to business men through the channels of an official head, giving the reports of meetings in the various branches of the association, etc.

Four Weeks' Old Baby Boy Found On Threshold of an Arlington House
Late Monday Night.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pavey, of 36 Dudley street, were called to the door of their home last Monday night at about 10 o'clock by a series of mysterious sounds. Going out upon the step, they found, much to their surprise, a small bundle of clothing, a bottle of milk, and another bundle, which last was walling with the plaintiveness of a hungry infant. Taken up gently and carried into the house, it was found to be a bright little youngster, apparently about four weeks old, dressed in warm clothing, and wondering much at his strange surroundings. Mr. and Mrs. Pavey cared for him tenderly until Tuesday morning, when they notified police headquarters, and Officer Smith was detailed to take the child to the almshouse. Tuesday afternoon, Chief Harriman put the case in the hands of the state board of charity. Chief Harriman, before leaving the state board of charities into whose keeping he delivered the child, named him "Hiram Dudley Smith"—"Smith" after Officer Smith who first took charge of him; "Dudley" for the street on which he was found; and "Hiram" because by that name he was first addressed by Selectman Farmer as one of the town fathers.

BAY STATE LODGE.

The annual meeting of the Bay State lodge was held in Grand Army hall, last Monday night. The entertainment was varied and pleasing, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and recitations. Among the latter, those by Miss Alice Durling and Miss Margaret Henderson were particularly well received. Miss Henderson was cheered for her rendering of the "Whistling Regiment," and responded by explaining how "Mr. Brown Got His Hair Cut" for which she received a handsome bouquet of roses. The singing of "Ann's Lullaby" and several other Scotch songs by two little girls, and of "Fiddle and I," accompanied by the violin in the hands of a small boy, and the playing of "Il Trovatore" by the same youngster helped to make up an enjoyable program.

After the entertainment, there were refreshments and dancing. A large number of people were present.

Henry Schuhmacher, 229 Massachusetts avenue, is one of the faithful employees of the Boston Elevated road. He is a motorman running from the Heights to Boston. He knows just how to stop a car right on the crossings. In spite of constant hard work, Mr. Schuhmacher is always pleasant and agreeable to meet.

"FLASHLIGHTING" DEER—SPLENDID SUCCESS OF PHINEAS HUBBARD, A CAMBRIDGE AMATEUR.
—From the National Sportsman for March.

THE PLAN OF MR. HUBBARD'S FLASHLIGHTING APPARATUS

"FLASHLIGHTING" DEER.

[By Phineas Hubbard.]

Last season I went into the Maine
woods taking my camera, more for taking landscapes than anything else. It being my first season in the woods, the thought of photographing wild life had not been seriously considered. So I arrived at the camp with no facilities for night work, and when I saw the opportunity, the tools for making necessary apparatus were few. However, I was determined to try flashlighting deer, and sent to Boston for three dozen largest cartridges. My apparatus was necessarily crude, and consisted of a tin-lined box for holding a lamp, nailed firmly to a pole, which, inserted into the bow of a boat, enabled me to turn the lamp at will and scan the shore; to this was fastened a board at the left side of the lamp-box on which the camera was placed and firmly screwed down. In this way the camera always faced the same way as the light. I then took a board, say fifteen inches long and nine inches wide, to stand on end, and nailed a shelf to the lower end, making a small hole in the center of the upright board just over the shelf. The cover of a lard pail was procured and a hole punched through the rim large enough for a cartridge fuse.
This was placed on the shelf, and adjusted so that the fuse would run through both the rim of the tin plate and the back-board. Two strips of wood connected this whole affair with the box, so the effect was like this:

I covered the front of the back-board with white paper. Thus armed, I leveled my camera in the afternoon, focused it at about five feet, and waited for the night.

About nine o'clock my guide and I started, and having put one cartridge in the plate, and poured the contents of six or eight more into the plate around the full box, covering the plate with a shingle, I kept out the dampness, we rowed across the pond where we could paddle into the wind; then I removed the slide from the plate-holder. After rowing up the pond for a few minutes, we heard a few splashes and knew at once that our game was at hand, so carefully paddling in the direction from which the sound came, we suddenly saw the flash of the deer's eyes. I removed the cap and paddled up as near as possible to the animal. When as near as I dared to go, I struck a match behind the back-board, covering it with my hands, and lit the fuse, removing the shingle. Then holding the light steadily upon the deer, we waited the flash with the results accompanying the article.

Even with these crude appliances, I commend this sport to my brother photographers. It will be found sufficiently exciting to satisfy almost all natures, and many who do not care to hunt with the rifle the creature of the wood, will enjoy this form of hunting. Let me close with this advice: Do not be afraid of using flash-light powder. Remember, you are lighting the universe!

ADDRESS BY W. W. RAWSON

A paper on "The Evolution of Vegetable Culture During the Last Forty Years" was read by W. W. Rawson, of Arlington, before the Massachusetts Horticultural society at its recent meeting.

He said in part:
By evolution is meant progressive development, and it is doubtful if there is any other branch of business in which this progression is more pronounced than in the culture of the various vegetable crops which have been grown for market for the past forty years. This advancement has been made by the introduction of new varieties, the improvement of old varieties, the greater intelligence in the use of fertilizers, the improvement of farm machinery and the methods of culture, and the introduction of glass houses for the forcing of crops
during the winter.

We have learned that it is possible to produce three crops where only one could be obtained heretofore. Great strides have been taken in agricultural chemistry. Now we can tell by analysis the exact amounts of the essential elements,

namely, nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid in the soil, and if one or two are deficient for the successful production of the crop they can be supplied.
The improvement in machinery has been such that one man and one horse can do the work that required many 40 years ago. The climate has so changed during the past four decades that crops that were once very successful out of doors are almost a failure now. Cucumbers and melons may be cited as examples.

Glass had just begun to be used 40 years ago. After the ash came the glass houses, and these have been enlarged and perfected to such an extent that today the growing of vegetables under glass has become a specialty, and crops have attained a perfection unknown 40 years ago. Four crops can be produced in a year, three of lettuce and one of cucumbers.

The market gardener of today is classed as an up-to-date business man.
He works more with his head than with his hands. He plans the work for others,

there are now three chariots and 12 horses engaged in the mad race for the laurel wreath in which "Ben Hur" lowers
the colors of his enemy, Messala, and is crowned the victor. As "Ben Hur" is the stage transcript of a great book, with the beautiful settings and lavish expenditure of money, which Klaw & Erlanger
made in the production, it could scarcely be other than a good play.

keeps himself informed every day on the condition of the market, knows all about the new seeds and machinery introduced,
and in every way endeavors to get the greatest amount possible out of his land.
The seed business of today is one of enormous detail. The seedsmen knows what is the best locality for every crop and sends his stock seeds to a grower in that locality who he knows makes a specialty of that particular variety. For instance, we get our peas and beans from different sections in northern New York and Canada, our vine seeds from Michigan and several states in the west, our onion seed from California and Connecticut, and our radish and spinach from Germany, where we also get a greater proportion of our flower seeds.

All fertilizers are now required by law to have a correct table of analysis on every package or bag, so that the buyer can tell just what he is buying.

Probably the most interesting phase of the evolution of market gardening during the last 40 years is the study of the changes and improvements made in the different kinds of vegetables.

THE NINETEENTH OF APRIL.

The nineteenth of April is in a special way a legacy left by the fathers to Lexington, Arlington and Belmont, and it is peculiarly fitting that these three towns should yearly celebrate "the shot heard round the world." They have formerly evinced a pride in making on this anniversary of the opening battle of the Revolution a demonstration worthy of the event. Last year a splendid showing was made. No less should be done this year, and to this end the town ought not to fail of appropriating a sufficient sum of money to make the coming nineteenth of April a memorable day. This is a town affair, and the expenses should largely be met by the towns. Let no resident ever forget the 19th of April.

THE GLAD EASTER.

The whole Christian world rejoices that there is in its calendar of reckoning the glad Easter day. From it all life begins anew. The day symbolizes a resurrected life. The annual return of the joyous Easter time is the declaration repeated that death and the grave have been overcome. It does more than this—for it is an assurance that there is no death. Life continuous and immortal is the glad proclamation of the Easter time. The day has to do not with a dead, but with a living Christ. Now has the stone been rolled away, so the empty grave tells not of death but of life. The whole lesson of Easter day is that oneness and continuity of life which makes it forevermore the same, whether lived here or in the hereafter. The dividing line between what we term death and life is altogether an imaginary one. Christ was the same Christ after His death as He was before it which substantiates the fact that however much the body may be crucified, there can no death come to the soul. And herein is found the joy and hope of Easter. We now know that the friends "gone before" are with us still. The two worlds are side by side and so close to each other that we may in those supreme moments which come more or less frequently to us, all alike, exchange greetings, and even catch the whisperings of the dear departed. So let us no longer speak of death in an undertone, but proclaim aloud in joyous and exultant voice that life, happy and continuous, is the everlasting decree. May Easter Sunday prove another re-assurance.

"There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call death."

MRS. W. D. ROCKWOOD.

Death claimed Mrs. W. D. Rockwood, Saturday last. For several years her health had been undermined by an incurable disease, but there seemed to be no reason to anticipate the end so soon.

Almos without warning she fell asleep. A husband and two children, beside mother and sisters, are bereaved in her death.

Thirteen years ago Mrs. Rockwood was married in the home in which she died. As Miss Kennedy, many will remember her in the former days. Her kindred having moved to Cambridge, she was about to go there to be near them when the call came. Mrs. Rockwood was a young woman with a delightful home and everything to live for, but her faith in God never questioned His purpose. Whether on the earth in her household and among friends, or in the celestial land, she would be sure to be doing God's will.

Rev. John G. Taylor offered prayer at the house and made remarks at the church, while the more extended address was made by Rev. Mr. Mason, her pastor at the Epworth church, Cambridge.

In her home and in her life, as mentioned was made of her wide experience in the great and eternal things of life. Although her days seem to be cut short, yet "that life is long which answers to the end." Mrs. Rockwood had lived much, having sounded the depths of soul-experience in home, in friendships, in religious confession, in church service.

The sympathy of neighbors and friends for the living and tender regard for the dead were beautifully evinced by the floral offerings.

Mrs. Rockwood was formerly Miss Catherine Kennedy, of Charlestown, where she had lived for many years. She was married to Mr. Rockwood and came to Arlington Heights.

The funeral service at the house, Tuesday, was conducted by Rev. J. G. Taylor. In the Epworth M. E. church, Cambridge, the services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Wilbur N. Mason. The burial took place at half-past one Tuesday afternoon, at Woodlawn.

Doors open at 7:30. Concert at 8, and grand march at 9:45. "Select your partners."

PRODUCE THE EVIDENCE.

In last week's issue of a local paper there appeared assertions concerning one of the drug stores of the town which should either be substantiated by proof or be retracted forthwith. It was stated that one of the drug stores is dispensing non-distilled whiskey in defiance of all law and order. The charge was made in an apparently bold, yet really cowardly manner, for while the writer professed to know whereof he spoke, neither names nor evidence were given either to the public or to the authorities. Indeed, the article failed to give the name of the alleged guilty party, and, as there are two drug stores, even though the accusation were true, the innocent storekeeper is thereby placed under suspicion unjustly. The article, therefore, from the fact that no proofs were brought forward, must be regarded as an insult to the town and to the townspeople. The Law Enforcement league has shown a readiness to cope with violators of the liquor law, and if there are such conditions existing as are alleged, it is the duty of any one who knows to report the facts so that action may be taken. Now is the time for the charges to be proved. If they can be sustained, they ought to be, and if they cannot, an apology is due. Will either be forthcoming? We think not. This last gasp of scurrilous journalism causes no surprise, but does cause just condemnation.

The world is greater and more important than any one book, however distinguished its author may be; and greater and more important than any library, however excellent. He is the real pupil who learns, first of all, his lesson from the world outside of the book and outside of the schoolhouse.

"Husbands, love your wives" is the scriptural reading; and yet there are husbands who seldom or never speak the word "love" in the presence of the wife and children. Why not love one another, and then go straight and tell of it?

Don't forget that you are you and I am I; and it will be well to remember that, whenever we become other, we become nonentities.

The man who rises above the merely conventional will generally be criticised while "living," and sometimes praised when dead.

Speak aloud, and never talk in whispers. The truth doesn't require an undertone.

There is individual freedom wherever and whenever Nature asserts herself.

THEFT CHARGED.

Against David Miller by Edward James.

East Lexington Workman Accused of Stealing Clothing—Arrested and Brought Into Court—Case Continued.

Edward James has brought a charge of theft against David Miller, James and Miller have recently been at work for Warren Davis on the Lawrence place, off Watertown street, East Lexington. Not long ago Miller fell and injured his arm so badly as to prevent his working for a time, and to cause him to go to Dracut, where his wife lives. Shortly afterwards he returned to East Lexington, his arm in a sling, to get some clothing he had left at James' place, which Miller carried off amongst it an eighteen dollar suit and an overcoat which belonged to him, James. Last Monday, Officer Foster went with James to get a warrant against Miller. While they were on the way to Dracut after their man he appeared opportunist in Lexington to get his arm dressed, where he was promptly nabbed by Chief Franks and locked up. Officer Foster took the case into court, last Tuesday, and it was continued to next Tuesday on $500 bonds.

There was a narrow escape from a serious fire here Tuesday. The grain of the Hall place in some way caught fire about one o'clock, and the wind, which was blowing quite hard at the time spread the fire rapidly down toward the Harriet house. The flames were of sufficient length to make, with the assistance of the wind, a good, rousing fire, which would have seriously endangered the fence and house in its path if plenty of assistance had not been secured to put it out.

The Friday club held its usual bi-weekly meeting Friday.

The schools open for the next term Tuesday of the coming week.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor Enterprise: Dear Sir—I have been the recipient of so many congratulations from Lexington friends for the efforts of the Lexington orchestra at the cafe concert, last Saturday, that I think it but just to ask you, through the columns of your paper, to give the credit for whatever success we may have made to the one to whom credit is due. My father, Mr. Jas. L. Blodgett, has directed the little orchestra, purely as a labor of love, for the past three months, and it is to him we owe whatever success has been ours.

He has been prominently before the public for the past fifty years, having been connected with the original Harvard Symphony orchestra, and as leader for prominent theatrical and operatic productions, being the original musical director of the first Gilbert and Sullivan operas, when they were toured some 25 years ago.

Thanking you in advance for the courtesy I am, Respectfully yours, L. K. Blodgett.

RAN AWAY.

School Boy Resented Punishment.

Frank McDonald, a young boy whose home is near the Woburn crossing, disappeared last week Thursday. He is a pupil of the ninth grade in the Hancock school. For some misdemeanor, his teacher sent him home last week Thursday, and his mother, after punishing him, sent him back to school again. It was soon found that he had not returned to the school at all, and Friday Chief Franks learned that he was last seen Thursday evening, and that he had then collected two dollars from a man for whom he had been working.

From that time until last Wednesday, when Chief Franks received a letter from the chief of police of Salem, no trace of the boy could be found. The letter states that McDonald and another boy named Gattigan, lodged together in Salem, Sunday night. McDonald said he was going to Portland; Gattigan said that his home is in Rockland, and that he was going there. They left together Monday noon. Chief Franks has notified the police of Portland to hold McDonald until called for. If he gets to Portland as he intended, it is probable that he will return home soon.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY C. E. CONVENTION.

The Middlesex county C. E. convention, which is to be held at Medford on Saturday, April 19, is the thirteenth gathering since the organization of the County Union in 1890. The union is composed of ten local unions, having an aggregate membership of about 100 societies. The union and its deliberations are presided over by Miss Emma Ostrom Nichols, of East Lexington, whose efficient services in conducting two previous conventions assure success for this year's gathering. The host of the occasion is the Middlesex Central union, composed of 19 societies in Arlington, Bedford, Carlisle, Lexington, Medford, Winchester and Woburn. This union was organized in 1891 and has entertained the county Endeavorers once before, in 1891, at Woburn. The president of the local union is Herbert A. Snow, of Arlington Heights.

OLD BELFRY CLUB.

E. W. Tower won the strip of tickets off red for last week. His score was 103.

The golf club has engaged the club hall for a dance April 6.

Monday night, what was played. There were eight tables. The following are some of the scores (all plus): Mr. and Mrs. Kendall 11, Mr. and Mrs. V. Reed 2, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman 3, Miss Ballard and Mr. Cloyce 1/2, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Luke 3/4, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Reed 4 1/2.

The tennis courts are being gotten into shape rapidly. Tennis is being exceptionally popular this spring, and arrangements are making for a series of tournaments.

The cafe concert at the Old Belfry club, Saturday night, was a great success. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and, besides, a number of people who were late could not get past the door.

The following program was rendered: Lexington orchestra; vocal quartet, of Boston, Messrs. Tucker, Hanshue, Phillips, and Hallings; sketch, "Rubber Boots"; Characters: Pauline, Miss Alice Hamblin; Lou, Miss Amy Taylor; Sophie, Miss Alice Birelow; the tramp, Edward W. Taylor; Clarinet solo, Arthur Wood, Bedford; soprano solo, Miss Eleanor Bragdon, Watertown; Lexington orchestra; intermission; quartet; reading, James E. Crone, violin solo, Miss Williams; "The Magic Mirror," reading by Mrs. F. K. Brown; Lexington orchestra. W. H. Ballard was the bachelor, who was "seen" things at night. Following is a list of the tableaux: Wealthy matron, Mrs. W. Reed; rustic maiden, Miss Thurber; golf girl, Miss M. Wiswell; society belle, Miss Janvrin; nun, Miss M. Bikelow; twentieth century girl, Miss Hamblin; poetic maiden, Miss T. Robinson; domestic maiden, Miss Wiswell; classic maiden, Miss Houghton; Quakeress, Miss Russell; college girl, Miss Dale; bride, Miss F. Locke. The Lexington orchestra was very much appreciated and added a great deal to the success of the evening. The people in the sketch and "Magic Mirror" are very much indebted to Dr. N. H. Merriam for coaching and make-ups. G. Lowe announced the program. Credit is also due to Arthur Tucker for obtaining the services of the quartet.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XIII, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 30.

Text of the Lesson, John xx, 1-18.
Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text, John xi, 25—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.]
1, 2. "They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulcher and we know not where they have laid Him." These were the words of Mary Magdalene to Peter and John on her return from the sepulcher early on the morning of the resurrection day. As all the lessons of the quarter have shown us the power and doings of the risen and ascended Christ, it is not amiss on this review day, which happens to be Easter, to consider again specially His resurrection. We see in these women, as in the apostles, true believers in and followers of the Lord Jesus, with life and the future all dark to them because they knew not the resurrection, and they knew not because they believed not. In the lessons of the quarter we have seen thousands upon thousands of men and women made new creatures in the power of His resurrection. We need to be often reminded that if Christ be not risen all preaching is vain and none has been saved or ever will be, but Christ being raised up from the dead and having all power in heaven and earth every purpose of the Lord shall be performed (1 Cor. xv, 12-28).

3, 5. The two disciples ran because of Mary's message, and John, the fleetest of the two, arriving first, stooped down and looked in and saw the linen clothes lying, but he did not go in. It may have seemed to him too sacred a thing to step into such a place, or it may be that he feared he might see the precious body, desecrated, lying elsewhere in the tomb. We cannot know fully his thoughts and feelings until he shall some day tell us himself, but this we surely know, that if he had believed His Lord's words he would not have been surprised to find an empty tomb, but might rather have joyfully exclaimed, "He is risen!"

6, 8. Peter, more impulsive, when he comes, goes right into the sepulcher, then John follows, and they both see the linen clothes lying and the napkin that was about His head wrapped together in a place by itself and they believed Mary's testimony that the body was not in the tomb, but beyond that, as to what had become of the body, they were wholly in the dark, as the verses following testify.

9. "For as yet they knew not the Scripture, that He must rise again from the dead." Besides His own oft repeated words they might, with anointed eyes, have seen His resurrection in Ps. xvi, 10; Isa. xvi, 19; Eze. ii, 10; Hos. vi, 2, or at least a strong suggestion of it, but their hearts were set upon a kingdom which, according to their way of thinking, was to be established there and then, and being filled with their own thoughts they had no place for His thoughts and purposes.

10, 11. The disciples went to their own home, but Mary remained at the sepulcher weeping. Luke says that Peter departed wondering in himself at that which was come to pass (Luke xxiv, 12), not believing that Christ was risen, but believing simply that His body was not in the tomb and wondering what had become of it and what it all meant. We are reminded by the disciples and Mary of a time when "every man went to his own home. Jesus went unto the Mount of Olives" (John vii, 53; viii, 1). Did you ever see a precious body laid away from your sight, and the friends and relatives all went to their homes, but you, having left that which was the house in which the one who was dearer to you than life had lived in the tomb, felt that you no longer had what could be called home? If so, you can sympathize with Mary.

The Styles in Easter Millinery

BALCONY.
More people came to our Easter Millinery Opening than we expected, and so, thinking that there are some who could not come at the time of the opening, we have decided to continue the display till next Wednesday.

All the desirable and fashionable shapes are here—all of them.
The colors that will predominate this season are Pittsburg white and black, linen and Arabian; and these are to be relieved and enlivened by the pastel shades—light blue, pale green, and light pink. The Pittsburg white is of a smoky shade, and very stylish.

The shapes in dress hats are as follows: The Prince Henry, the large turban with Louis XV back, the Tricorne, the Continental, the large picture hats, the Marquise, the Du Barry, and the Gainsborough.

Of these shapes the Prince Henry seems to be most in demand just now. Its chief feature is a droop effect in front, full, rounded brim slightly rolled at the sides, and trimmed from the back.

The large turban with Louis XV back is very dressy and fashionable. It is a large turban, with flat crown, wide, undulating brim and a decided flare up the side.

The Tricorne is round shape with square pointed front, trimmed with a single pompon at the side.

The Marquise differs from the Tricorne principally in the back, where the brim does not meet, leaving a space for the hair when dressed high.

Stylish House Dresses and Wrappers

BALCONY.

Time was when any old wrapper or house dress would do for indoor wear, but that time has fortunately passed away. Today ladies demand just as much style, cut and finish in their wrappers as they do in their street costumes. And this is as it should be. When you come to think of it, appearances count for a lot in this world—and count quite as much in the home as in the public places. Why not have a stylish wrapper if you have any?

Extra Fine Percale Wrappers, prettily trimmed with ruffle, yoke trimmed with braid, extra full skirt with flounce.

$1.49

The Ready-to-wear Hats for this season are particularly natty and smart looking. They comprise Cuban, Tuscan and light weight rough straws prettily trimmed with sash effects of silk finished with quills and pompons. Prices from

$1.25 up to $5.00

Lace as a trimming will be very widely used this season, and whole hats, even are made of it. The Oriental, all over and applique patterns are the most desired kinds and can consequently be called the most fashionable.

If you care to see the finest collection of Fabrics ever woven for warm weather wear, attend this week's display at the dress goods counter. Truly it is a splendid array of beautiful materials. Describe them?—Why, you can't describe them. The attempt to give a description in cold type is enough to make one shiver. You've got to see the goods with your own two eyes to get any idea of them.

They are for Shirt Waists, Summer Gowns, Graduation Dresses, Class Day Gowns and the like.

WAVERLEY.

Wednesday evening of this week, Waverley hall was the scene of one of the prettiest subscription dancing parties that has ever been held in our village. The hall was decorated with crepe paper and floral effects. All the lamp globes were dimmed with delicately colored tissue, and the platform and stairway massed with small plants, palms and ferns. The landing of the front stairway was furnished as a drawing room and all in all the arrangements were artistic and cozy.
